WELCOME TO POINT GUARD COLLEGE

Point Guard College is an intense, no-nonsense learning experience for junior high school to college-aged male and female student-athletes. This is not your typical basketball camp. It's called a "college" for a reason.

WHAT MAKES PGC DIFFERENT?

PGC is an indispensable guide for players and coaches who desire to lift their basketball IQ to a higher level. Each course includes:

1. Classroom Learning Sessions

You will need a notebook and pen to take full advantage of PGC. Two-to-three times a day you will attend classroom sessions, where you will be expected to listen attentively, take notes and ask questions in order to deepen your understanding of the game.

2. Court Time

At PGC we employ unique sets of drills and game situations that turn the concepts taught in the classroom into productive action on the court. Students spend six-to-seven hours in the gym each day.

3. Video Analysis

You will study actual game footage to see examples—both good and bad—of every aspect of the game. These in-depth study sessions will help you learn to play—and watch—basketball in a more intelligent way.

4. Communication and Leadership Skills Development

PGC will help you tap into your potential as a player, as well as your ability to lead your team; allowing you to influence the work ethic and focus of those around you.

The multi-course curriculum is specially designed to teach basketball players to play the game intelligently, to train purposefully, to be "coaches on the court," and to be true leaders during games, in practice, during the off-season, and in everyday life.

WHO IS PGC FOR?

High School & Junior High School Athletes

If you are a dedicated athlete who spends time thinking about improving and reaching a higher level of play, chances are you'll love Point Guard College. But, if you are an athlete who just enjoys casually playing, you should consider other, more appropriate training options.

Collegiate Athletes & Professionals

The more experience you have, the more you will benefit from our program. Those who are already playing at a college level are in an ideal position to take advantage of everything PGC has to offer – that's why so many college players attend our sessions. Regardless of where you are in your post-secondary career, you will likely be expected to help lead a team, handle the ball, score from the perimeter, initiate the fast break, and create opportunities for your teammates. PGC will teach you all of these skills – and more.

Players Of Every Position

We teach how to play the game of basketball intelligently. Good basketball is not limited to any one position. Talented players, who play intelligently, are always more valuable, no matter what position they play. Of course, many point guards participate in our sessions, but we also have shooting guards, forwards, and post players attend each year.

Coaches

In the past three summers over 500 coaches have benefit from attending PGC courses. Each course serves as a notable coaching clinic and professional development opportunity to develop the knowledge and instructional acumen to truly transform their players.

SPIRIT

Our passion and enthusiasm. We inspire and get inspired by helping athletes and coaches get in touch with what they truly love about the game.

COMMUNICATION

We communicate our values in all that we say and do. We utilize a creative vocabulary that makes our teaching and communication effective and memorable.

HUSTLE

We consistently do more than our share and more than what is expected.

APPROACH

Our actions are always consistent with our purpose. We are always conscious of and consistent in our approach; making sure that it's sourced from our values.

PRECISION

We pay attention to the little things in all that we do and maintain an unwavering commitment to excellence.

ENHANCEMENT

We continually look for ways to make our organization, our curriculum, our staff, and the athletes that we work with, better.

WNBA PLAYER & ALL AMERICAN SPOTLIGHTS PGC

Kristi Toliver, the 2009 first-team All-American point guard and ACC Player of the Year from the University of Maryland, knows what it takes to attract the attention of NCAA recruiters. What does she recommend?

“Any male or female player who wants to have a serious chance to play college basketball, especially at the ‘D1’ level, needs to attend Point Guard College.

If you want to improve your chances of earning a college scholarship, going to Point Guard College is the smartest move you could ever make. PGC is the best place in America to learn all of the little things that make college recruiters sit up and take notice. They’ll teach you all of the 1-on-1 moves and team-related skills that you need, and how to make all of the decisions and ‘reads’ that a top-notch shooting guard or small forward needs to make.

I can’t say enough about how much Point Guard College has helped my game. I learned how to win at the highest level, and how to succeed against bigger, more athletic defenders. The competitive edge that I gained by attending Point Guard College was invaluable, and I will forever be grateful for the role that PGC has played in my success.”

Toliver, a two-time PGC grad, won an NCAA Championship at the University of Maryland in 2006 and was the 3rd Overall Pick in the 2009 WNBA Draft.

KRISTI TOLIVER, WNBA

WHAT PARENTS ARE SAYING

“My son has been a different kid since the session. Now he thinks, talks and acts like a leader. His personal growth has been remarkable. He is so much more confident and is not afraid to fail. Last night was his first game of the season. He started and played 34 minutes—the most he has ever played in a competitive basketball game. He played with passion, fire, and energy. Honestly, I can’t believe it is my son. PGC taught him how to play the right way.”

Joe Osborn, Fort Wayne, Indiana

“Our daughter had a basketball game the night she got home—and boy was there a difference. Her coach was totally amazed. Her dad and I sat up in the stands and were shocked at the girl we were watching out on the court. That was the BEST we had ever seen her play. The techniques and pointers you taught her during those four days worked a miracle.”

Carey and Becky Jobe, Fort Worth, Texas

“I am very impressed with my son’s poise, leadership and confidence since his attendance at PGC. He now plays more aggressively in the paint against bigger players who are stunned when they get beat and are scored on at the hoop. My son’s court awareness has also improved—not only is he scoring more points, he is getting other players involved. As a father I am truly impressed, and I must attribute these gains to the thorough teachings of Point Guard College.”

Ken Williams, Lakeville, Massachusetts

“We were delighted when Zach’s coach said to him, ‘I don’t know how much you paid for Point Guard College this summer, but it was worth every penny. You’ve improved in every facet of your game.’ Thanks PGC! You’ve made a young man very happy and his father very proud.”

THE COURSES

Intended for the highly driven and dedicated student-athlete, the PGC curriculum has been systematically designed so that each course connects to, and builds upon, the others.

The PGC curriculum will take any athlete or coach from the most fundamental basketball skills right through to highly advanced technical and tactical concepts. Each course is a 5-day, 4-night, full immersion, player development experience.

Selecting A Course – Prep School, Essentials, or Think The Game

If you are a rising 7th-10th grader and are able to attend a Prep School course, we highly recommend it as a starting point to your PGC experience. You can then work your way through each of our courses having started with a solid foundation.

If you are in high school or college, you are eligible to attend our Essentials and Think The Game courses. These courses are designed to complement each other. It's up to you which course to attend first. Sign up for the one that works best for you based on your schedule, locations, and the aspects of your game that you need to develop the most.

PREP SCHOOL

Eligibility: Rising 7th-to-10th grade athletes

This is the newest of PGC's course offerings. The Prep School is specifically designed to prepare players of ALL positions for high school varsity basketball. This course pulls from, and expands on, the concepts in both Essentials and Think The Game, allowing for more in-depth instruction. Each day at Prep School is comprised of teaching-focused and competitive court sessions, condensed and interactive classroom sessions, and daily video breakdown.

In this course, you'll learn:

Body Control and Explosion: Agility, balance, coordination, and speed are the building blocks for all technical skills. Learn how to go fast and stop on a dime and how to act and react at game speed while changing direction.

Ball Control: Efficient and effective are two words that describe all great ball handlers. Develop an understanding of how, when, and why different dribble tactics are used and learn how to 'combine' these moves.

Handling Pressure: Develop tools and strategies that will protect you against full-court and half-court pressure.

Footwork: Discover why 'quiet feet are quick feet'; when, and where, and how to use an attack-pivot versus a 'POOP' pivot; and, learn the outside-inside footwork that allow you to initiate and absorb contact against bigger-stronger-faster opponents.

Scoring and Finishing: Learn how to be a more effective scorer from the perimeter and inside the paint.

Un-ruffle-ability: Learn to be powerful, purposeful, and poised when you have the ball in your hands; to scan through pressure and have the ability to deliver pin-point passes during the 'Moment of Truth'.

How to Instill a Fierce Burning Passion: Learn how to protect your joy and love for the game and be 'bigger' than a critical team-mate, an unrelenting coach, or hostile fans.

How to be an Influencer: Leadership is influence and every player can influence a team towards a desired end. Learn leadership, responsibility, self-reliance and communication skills.

ESSENTIALS

Eligibility: Incoming freshman, high school and college athletes

Essentials is an intense and rigorous training experience focusing primarily on the individual, physical skills that great playmakers possess. Through specially designed teaching progressions and unique competitions that eliminate ineffective play, habits are broken down and re-formed to prepare players to be successful at higher levels of play. Each day at Essentials is comprised of two (2) classroom sessions, two (2) video breakdown sessions and seven (7) hours of on-court training.

In this course, you'll learn:

How to Get to the Paint Against a Bigger, More Athletic Defender: Learn how to initiate and battle through contact, and how to create separation and penetrate explosively in the lane.

How to Finish at the Rim with Consistency: Learn the three (3) crucial reads and finishes that you need to be successful in traffic.

Body Control, Footwork and Balance: Master the most important (yet under-taught) skills in the game of basketball—they will give you the edge in every situation in a game.

Point Guard Vision: Learn how to train your eyes and develop new habits that will help you see the floor and deliver the ball with precision and timing.

How to be 'Boss with the Basketball': Cut down on costly turnovers, and put your coach at ease when the ball is in your hands.

1-on-1 Pressure: Learn how to control a pesky defender in the full-court and develop the tools that you need to be a dominant defensive player.

The Psychology of Excellence: Learn how to think, prepare and perform like a champion—both in practice sessions and during games.

The 'Reality Check': Discover the truth about training—what it takes to get to the next level and what you need to do in order to get there.

The '30-day Challenge': You will leave Essentials with a personal plan to transform your year-round training.

THINK THE GAME

Eligibility: Incoming freshman, high school and college athletes

A great player contributes in many ways that the average fan (and the average player) never notices or thinks about. But, good coaches and winning teams know and understand these subtleties and “little things” that great players consistently do. And, if you want to be a great player and get noticed by coaches at the next level, you’d better know too. Each day at Think The Game is comprised of three (3) classroom sessions, three (3) video breakdown sessions and six (6) hours of on-court instruction.

In this course, you’ll learn:

How to Become a Play Maker: How to constantly be a scoring threat on each offensive possession, with the ball and when you don’t have the ball in your hands.

How to Master Decision Making on Penetration: When to take the pull-up, attack the rim, change direction, or penetrate and pitch. How to get to the free throw line three-to-four more times per game.

Beating Pressure with Poise: The keys for beating any type of pressure defense — how to turn an opponent’s full-court pressure into opportunities for your team.

Defensive Pestitude: Learn how to constantly bother the ball and lockdown your check, influencing them in their zones of inefficiency. How do you make your opponent’s star player have a below-average game? How do you energize your team-mates on the defensive end of the floor?

Shot Selection: Why does this matter? It’s the difference between winning and losing. One or two bad shots per half could cost you that championship. Learn the difference between a 70% shot and a 60% shot and how to get your team-mates to take higher-percentage shots.

Point Guard Opportunism: How to consistently make the defense uncomfortable and how to maximize scoring opportunities on your team’s fast breaks.

Point Guard Esoterica: These are the things that players aren’t usually told, but that all good players should know. How do you create time and space for your teammates? How do you control the tempo of a game?

How to Draw Out the Best from Your Teammates: How do you positively influence the intensity, precision, and focus of your team with your leadership and communication? How do you run the show without being overbearing?

COLLEGE SESSION

Eligibility: This course is open to men and women who have completed at least one year of college basketball and also those playing professionally in North America and internationally.

This course features content from all three Point Guard College core courses: Essentials, Think The Game, and Advanced Concepts.

WHAT ATHLETES ARE SAYING

“PGC helped me become a better leader. I could see a change in myself: stepping outside my comfort zone, challenging myself to do things I would normally never do, helping me to remember why I love to play.”

Big East player (Member of 2010 NCAA record setting Women's Basketball Team),
Name and school withheld due to NCAA restrictions

“The classroom and video sessions are excellent. The classes pointed out the more finite and intricate parts of the game and the video sessions showed these aspects of basketball in action. This culminated in a setting where you can learn the correct skills, and then see them be proven effective.”

Alexander Sousa, Dartmouth, Massachusetts

“The level of intensity and effort that is demanded at all times gives you a glimpse at greatness and allows you to understand what is necessary to achieve it.”

Megan Murphy, Clinton Corners, New York

“I thought that being a post/wing player would be frustrating, but you taught me what I needed to know. These courses will help anybody, no matter what position they play.”

Morgan Paulson, Wadena, Minnesota

“I already have a college scholarship but these days have been well worth the money. Every gym session would be helpful to ANY basketball player, not just point guards. I would definitely recommend athletes of all ages to come to PGC.”

Atlantic Coast Conference player, Name and school withheld due to NCAA regulations

“Someone asked me this week if I ever got bored after attending so many PGC sessions. My answer is ‘NO’. For five days I have the privilege to be around some of the most incredible people I have ever met. The entire staff (directors or not) have held themselves to a high level of excellence and precision. They continue to inspire me session after session.”

Travis Sheldon, Milton Academy, Milton, Massachusetts (Six-time PGC grad)

“Because I'm usually the shortest player on the team, it's always been harder for me. Now that PGC has provided me with the tools to use, I realize there's no more using my height as an excuse.”

Lakeeyscia Griffin, El Paso, Texas

Your staff was AMAZING!
I will challenge myself and give it all
I've got. I'm grateful for the opportunity to come to Point Guard College. It was worth every penny.

Regan Arnold, Minister, Ohio
